

Shoes that speak!

SHOES WITH STORIES
Just another WordPress.com weblog

December 16, 2008 by shoeswithstories

The Christmas party last week was hilarious. The client had got in this new fashion events company to organise the party, and the woman who was meant to be running the fashion show, was off her head.

Even the most hardcore shoe addicts don't admit to having conversations with their footwear. Yes, a pair of classic black patent Pigalle pumps from Christian Louboutin do 'speak' to us in a metaphorical way (...try me on, buy me, touch me, I'm gorgeous!) but we've never heard of shoes coming to life and writing their own blogs before now! Meet Shoes With Stories, a cutesy little blog written by the footwear created by Hetty Rose (an ethical shoe designer who uses bright vintage kimono fabrics in girly styles - perfect for next season's orientalism). Mika, Saya and Yuki are the shoe-bloggers and they document everything from the work Christmas do to their relationship problems (Mika is currently having quite a stressful time hiding her love for Paul who is stuck with a psycho girlfriend) and even the effects of the credit crunch. For a little bit of Friday escapism check it out here... [\[ShoeswithStories\]](#)
